The primary topic of conversation was about doctoral qualifying exams across the institution and how each department’s system can be investigated given recent deep dives into some departments’ qualifying exams. The GSC plans to put together a proposal for how this can be done, which will be presented to various administration members after it is completed for feedback. The rest of the conversation was about GSC officers getting a better understanding of OGE’s roles in admissions, advising, and transitional funding.